Frankie is a well deserving recipient of the Aussie of the Month award. She is a considerate, conscientious, industrious, and attentive student who understands that all attempts in learning are positive and are an opportunity to learn. Her commitment and dedication to learning is a shining example to her peers. Frankie consistently takes responsibility for her own learning by clarifying instructions and asking for help when needed. She always displays the school values and is a responsible member of our school community. Frankie always celebrates the achievements of others and will also happily help others on their learning journeys, which is a commendable quality for any student to possess. If you have any issues with uniform please don't hesitate to reach out to our front office staff who can assist with the purchase and/or support with uniform.

NAIDOC Week

This week sees us celebrating NAIDOC Week, with the theme being "The Next Generation: Strength, Vision & Legacy". This theme celebrates the 50th anniversary of NAIDOC Week and focuses on the achievements of the past, the strength of the next generation, and the bright future ahead. It emphasizes the importance of honoring the legacy of ancestors while looking forward with hope and determination. Our students will be continuing to learn more about indigenous culture, and the role of themselves as being young leaders helping to shape the future by encouraging reflection on the past, celebration of the present and having a commitment to building a culture of respect for all.

Social Wellbeing

At Frankston East Primary School, we recognise that a child's educational journey is not just about academic progress—it's also about nurturing their social wellbeing. One of the most important aspects of a child's development is learning how to form and maintain positive friendships. The importance of supporting children in this area cannot be overstated.

Human beings are social creatures. We all thrive on connection, a sense of belonging, and meaningful relationships. Helping your child develop strong social and relationship skills is essential for their long-term happiness and wellbeing. How we teach our children to socialise and relate to others directly impacts the friendships and connections they build.

There are many simple and powerful ways families can support their child's social development at home:

- Tune in and have real conversations: Make time for genuine discussions about things that interest your child. Ask for their opinions and listen—children of all ages have valuable perspectives to share.
- Practise social skills: Use play, games, and family activities to help your child develop skills like sharing, cooperating, problem solving, and using good manners.

- Talk about friendships: Discuss what makes a good friend and the difference between being popular and being a kind, loyal friend. Conversations like these build emotional intelligence and resilience.
- Encourage empathy and inclusion: Help your child understand different perspectives and encourage them to include others who may be feeling left out.
- Model healthy relationships: Children learn a great deal by observing adults. Demonstrate respectful, caring friendships in your own life.

As always, the partnership between school and home plays a crucial role in your child's growth—both academically and socially. Working together, we can create consistent messages and support structures that help our students develop into well-rounded, confident and connected individuals.

Dad joke of the week: What do mathematicians say to the person who invented the number zero? Thanks for nothing!

Dear Parents and Carers,

We are very excited to announce our 100 Days of School Celebration is happening this Friday, 25th July! We would love for our Prep, Grade 1 and Grade 2 children to come to school wearing something to celebrate this milestone! Students may wish to come dressed wearing something that represents the number 100 or 100 years ago or celebrate being 100 days brighter. We have listed some ideas for you to think about below:

- Wear a bright or colourful t-shirt or clothing to celebrate being 100 days brighter!
- Stick 100 objects onto a t-shirt. E.g. stickers, googly eyes, pom poms
- Wear 100 hair ties
- Wear a hat with 100 decorated on it
- Write the number 100 on a t-shirt
- Dress up like a 100 year old person
- Draw 100 pictures on a t-shirt

On this day children will participate in some fun 100 day-themed 'hands on' classroom activities. We will also have a special visit from Mrs. Sargood who will show us what school was like, over 100 years ago, in the 1800s! It is such a wonderful milestone, and we are very proud of our students' commitment to their learning so far!

If you have any questions, please ask your classroom teacher.

Kind Regards, The Prep-Grade 2 Team.
